A special train bearing women and children from Blaine and other points in the trouble sone arrived in Helena last night and were given accommodations by the people here. One train bearing refugees concealed in a specific gendola was fired upon by negroes who had climbed trees beside the railroad tracks where it runs through dense cane brakes. None of the refugees was hit.

Parties of armed men who came to Helena from Clarendon, Marianna, Marvell and other points near Helena on the Arkansus side of the river and other parties from Luia, Tunica, Friar Point and Clarksdale, Miss., aided in patrolling the streety of Helena last night and assisted in preserving order in the irouble zone. Some of these visitors left for their homes this morn-ing.

Hiera was closed tight hast night, even the drug stores being closed, and women and children kept within doors. From three to five armed citizens natroled each block in the downtown and residential sections of the city, and a small army waited at the Phillips county courthouse to respond to emergency calls. Ritles and shatguns with ample supplies of ammunition were received from Memphis and other cities, and the courthouse had the appearance of an arsenal. County Judge H. D. Moore, in charge of matters in the absence of Sheriff F. F. Kitchens, who has been seriounly ill, sat at a desk with a telephone at his elbow and kept in constant communication with posse leaders at Elaine. Helena is Quiet.

No uneasiness is felt about conditions in Helena. So far as known nonegro here has any connection with the trouble at Hoop Spur and in the violative of Elaine. At a meeting of white and regro ministers yesterday perfect harmony prevailed, and mutual confidence was exchanged. The negro ministers were headed by Rev. E. C. Morris, for more than 30 years pastor of Centennial Baptist church here, and for more than 25 years president of the American Baptist church here, and for more than 25 years president of the American Baptist association, the largest association of negroes in the world. Dr. Morris holds the confidence of the white citizens of Helena and wields a powerful influence among members of his own race. He gave assurance at the meeting yesterday that there would be no occasion for worry with respect to the negro population of Helena, and developments throughout the night vindicated his statements. There were no negroes on the streets, and the whole city was absolutely quiet. With the arrest of the leaders among the belligerent negroes in the trouble sone, it is now felt that there will be no further cause for alarm.

of the Clem family, who were said to be involved in a row among themselves Sheriff Kitchens, who has been ill, could not accompany them.

A man named Clem, alleged bootlegger, had been reported "on a rampage" in a message to the sheriff from Elaine authorities. Clem, it was asserted, had threatened to kill his wife and other members of the family, including W. H. Clem, formerly a contractor of this city, but now a resident of Elaine, had become involved. The message requested that deputies be sent to arrest members of the family to prevent further disturbances.

The automobile in which Pratt, Adkins and the negro trusty were riding, it is related, was stopped before the Hoop Spar church to repair a puncture, and while working on the car the party was fired upon from the church by undentified persons. Adkins dropped dead and Pratt was wounded. The trusty, who escaped unwounded, made his way to a nearby railroad station and telephoned a report of the incident to the sheriff. Efforts to have the association officially mail copies of the resolution to both Tennessee senators falled, however.

As forecasted on Tuesday, Giles Evans, of Fayetteville, Tenn., was fechosen as president of the association to succeed Judge Julian C. Wilson, of Memphis. The outstanding feature of the Wednesday afternoon session was the address of A, Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general of the United States.

W. B. Swaney, of Chattanoogs, presented the resolution indersing the league of nations and the peace treaty. C. A. Stainback, of Somerville, declared that the bar association was not in politics. The most spirited debate of the convention then developed during which, the president repeatedly rapped for ofder and was called upon to pass upon questions of parliamentary procedure.

torney, who was a member of the 30th division and served in France, requested that copies of the resolution be mailed to the Tennessee senators. The chair ruled against this and Mr. Waldauer appealed from the ruling of the chair. When the matter was brought to a vote the ruling of the chair was sustained but supporters of Mr. Waldauer's request made it plain that the senators would get copies of the resolution even though they did not come from the association officially.

A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general of the United States. the principal speaker of the day, had entered the building during the debate on the resolution. Accompanied by a committee from the bar association, his appearance on the stage was the signal for prolonged applause. Judge Julian C. Wilson, retiring president, introduced Mr. Palmer as the first lawyer of the land, a patriotic, vigorous and militant American. Another outburst of applause greeted the attorney-general as he arose to deliver his address on the work of the alien property custodian during the period of the war.

In the preamble to his set speech the attorney general stated that the only direct effect the peace treaty and league of nations would have on American business men and financial interests affected the very work that the alien property custodian had done and he very plainly stated that "when the shouting is over and the tunuit has subsided the treaty will be ratified." This statement brought forth prolonged applause from the large audience that practically filled the auditorium of the Goodwyn institute.

Immediately after Mr. Palmer had concluded his address the election of officers for the ensuing term was held. Gites Evans of Fayetteville was named as president while Hillsman Taylor, of Trenton. Barton Brown, Nashville and Chas. H. Smith, Knoxville, were chosen as vice-presidents. Lee Winchester, of Memphis, was re-elected as secretary-treasurer of the association. The delegates to the convention of the American Bar association to represent the Tennessee association were Judge Julian C, Wilson, Will Norville, of Nashville, and H. M. Candler, of Athens.

During the evening visiting delegates and their wives and members of the Memphis Bar association were Judge Julian C, Wilson, Will Norville, of Nashville, and H. M. Candler, of Athens.
